

WHAT IS THE BAGUA?

The bagua, also called a “pa kua” in some schools of Feng Shui, is a fundamental philosophical concept from ancient China which represents a map of the energetic world. Compass School, Classical School Feng Shui, Black Sect, Black Hat, and Pyramid Feng Shui use the principles and ancient teachings of the bagua. The bagua has been proclaimed as the current state of the universe. When you add up the numbers within the bagua, either across or diagonally, they add up to the number 15. You can see these numbers represented on the bagua map sample that has been included in this book on page 24.

The bagua is traditionally shown as an octagon shape as above, but it can also be displayed as a grid layout. The nine aspects of life are shown on a grid layout on page as this is easiest to read when laying over a floor plan or room. This bagua map is an easy layout that will show you where certain areas of your home, room or plot of land are in relations to certain aspects of life. The layout can also identify areas that may be missing. The bagua can locate areas easily that you may want to enhance or improve such as wealth and love. The bagua has been used for thousands of years and is one of the easiest methods to ascertain the Feng Shui of any given environment.

The bagua divides any space into nine areas. Each area corresponds to a different aspect of your life. These nine areas of life are divided into such categories as: future & fame, relationships,
